

Lubin Olson's Litigation Practice Group has developed a reputation as one of the pre-eminent trial and litigation practices in California. We have extensive experience litigating a broad range of commercial disputes in state and federal courts and arbitrations throughout California, including those relating to real estate, contracts, securities, employment, lender liability, receiverships, construction (contract, surety, guarantee, warranty, claims, mechanics' lien, performance and defect), trade secrets, unfair competition, broker and professional liability, business torts and fiduciary matters.

A major focus of our work is preventative in nature. To that end, we counsel our clients on how they can avoid lawsuits or successfully utilize dispute resolution alternatives to litigation. When litigation does arise, our first objective is to resolve it as quickly and inexpensively as possible, either through an early settlement or a favorable pre-trial disposition. We recognize, however, that not all lawsuits are capable of a pre-trial disposition through settlement or motions. Unlike many other firms, our litigators are – first and foremost – trial lawyers. With nearly 200 jury trials, bench trials and arbitrations between us, we are highly skilled at trying or arbitrating disputes when necessary and appropriate.

We bring a high level of analytical skill, creativity and practical problem solving to each case. Our extensive trial experience affords our clients the opportunity to select a course of action most appropriate for the particular situation. While many matters are best settled in mediation or other alternative dispute resolution forums, our clients do not feel pressured to settle to avoid trial.

We leanly staff all our client engagements, but have the ability to pivot, with optimal flexibility, to increase or decrease the resources devoted to any particular matter. We also use sophisticated technology to more efficiently communicate with our clients and to manage and support their engagements.

Our Litigation Practice Group is comprised exclusively of seasoned practitioners from outstanding educational and professional backgrounds. As a result, our clients can rely on receiving practical advice rather than on having their matters serve as a training ground for new lawyers. We believe that a small, experienced group of litigators can outperform a larger group of attorneys and that our staffing is much more cost-effective for our clients. Our track record of success against national law firms confirms our beliefs.
